Member Benefits

APEGBC Student Membership will help you get to know the intricacies of the engineering and geoscience professions and will transition from student life to professional life. As a student member, you will benefit from professional and financial opportunities.

Student-Industry Events

There is no better way to meet potential employers and establish valuable connections than at student-industry networking events. This is your chance to hear from professional engineers and geoscientists who are eager to share their insights on career paths and employment opportunities. These events take place throughout the year, and allow students and professionals to talk one-on-one in a relaxed, casual atmosphere.

Student Scholarships

As a student member, you are eligible for APEG-MAPS scholarship. Additionally, you will receive notification of the other scholarships available for students.

Full Access to all APEGBC Online Services

MAPS members will gain access to several online services that include: EIT/GIT Online Experience Reporting and Review System, CPD Recording Centre and Member Surveys.

Credit Towards Your First-year EIT/GIT Fees

In the year following graduation, student members will receive a credit towards their first year EIT/GIT fee for every year they have been enrolled as a MAPS member. By investing in MAPS today, you can save yourself money in the future.

APEGBC Branches and Divisions

Student members automatically gain complimentary membership to one of fifteen regional branches and upon request, complimentary membership to any of our special interest divisions, which offer regular talks and tours of professional interest, newsletters and fun events. As a student member, you will benefit from special student pricing for most fee-based branch and division events.

Employment Resources

Looking for an efficient way to generate employment leads? As a MAPS member, you can post your resume on our website and allow employers to search your qualifications. We also have a student job board that lists available engineering and geoscience positions for students.

Subscription to Innovation Magazine & Connections E-newsletter

As a member, you receive a direct mail subscription to the Association's official journal. Innovation is published six times annually, while Connections is delivered monthly via email. Each provides information on trends in the professions and emerging technologies, as well as member news, details of future events, and career listings.

Member Affinity Program Discounts

Take advantage of the great savings that have been negotiated on Insurance, Health Services, Financial Services, Fuel, Hotels, Cell Phones, Airport Parking and Car Rentals.

Special Student Pricing for Professional Development Programs and Activities

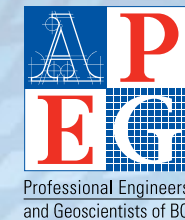

We understand how tight a student's budget can be, and that's why our events feature reduced prices for MAPS members. This special pricing extends to our most popular event, the APEGBC Annual Conference, held in October each year.
